Her Own Detective.

NEW YORK, September 16.-While shopping in West 26th street Saturday Mrs. Blanche Huk, a Frenchwoman, who came here from Fort de France, Martinique, caught hold of a man and screamed. Detectives McIvor and O'Brien went to her assistance. She explained that she had found the man in her apartments last April and that he had escaped with $1,000 in jewelry. He jimmled an entrance.

The man said he was Francois Lusac. forty years old, a carpenter, of 425 West 29th street. The police failed to get any trace of the thief or of the stolen property and Mrs. Huk has ever since been watching for both. Magistrate Steinert held Lusac for the grand jury in $2.000 bail yesterday in the Tombs police court.

LABOR LEADERS TO MEET HERE

SEVERAL INTERNATIONAL OF-FICERS TO PARTICIPATE.

Matters Relating to Local Lockout to Be Considered-Reply to Employers' Association.

Preparations were in progress today at the headquarters of the grievance committee of the Building Trades Council for the holding of a joint meeting of the officers of international labor organizations who are now here and others who are expected to arrive soon and the members of the local committee. The purpose of the joint session will be to consider matters of importance in connection with the present lockout of the building trades, it was explained. International Vice President Preece of the brick ayers is expected to take a leading part in the movement that will be inaugurated. It was stated at labor headquarters today that information has been received by the international officers to the effect that the manufacturers' associations in other large cities are centering their efforts on the open shop movement which was inaugurated here by the Employers' Association. Their purpose is said to be to make Washington an open shop city first and then concentrate on other cities, using this city

Secretary James McIver of the grievance ommittee said this afternoon that there are no other walkouts in sight, but he could not forecast what action might be taken at the joint meeting heretofore re-

More Non-Unionists at Work.

At the headquarters of the Employers' Association, 1333 G street, there was considerable bustle today, and Secretary E. K. Hall explained that non-union mechanics had been put to work this morning on the "struck" jobs of Messrs. Mooney and Oster-

'We sent so many non-union carpenters we sent so many non-timon carpenters to Mr. Mooney," said Mr. Hall, "that he had to call a halt, informing us that he had as many carpenters as he could work on his buildings. Several union mechanics on his buildings. Several union mechanics walked into our employment bureau today, and, throwing down their working cards, declared they were ready to go to work as non-unionists."

It was learned that the international of-ficers of the labor unions intend to remain here for some time and direct the efforts of the local forces, reinforced by the in-ternational bodies, against the open shop

Reply From Bricklayers.

Past President E. McCollam of the Bricklayers' Union, No. 1, has replied to the statement of Secretary Hall of the Employers' Association, which was published in The Sunday Star. He denied the report of Mr. Hall that there are more than 2,000 non-union mechanics employed in this city, and said there are not more than 300 non-union mechanics, employed by members of the Employers' Association who are antagonistic to the closed shop, as the amount of construction work now in the hands of these contractors represents scarcely 10 per cent of the work of the city.

"That the open shop is an assured thing in this city," he said, "Is hardly so. The employers contend that on several buildings non-union men of one craft are work-ing side by side with union mechanics of he statement is correct, but the employers | % its meaning.

Under certain conditions we do permit anion men to work with non-union men. Such a condition existed on the municipal building, when non-union plumbers worked with the other craftsmen, all of whom were union. But this condition was not permitted until it was seen that by forcing the non-union plumbers to leave the work we would seriously injure the contractor,

James L. Parsons. "Such a condition as this cannot be considered as an open shop, and wherever a non-union mechanic is working alongside of a union man, in every case it is allowed because the contractor on that particular piece of work has signed an agreement which specifically states that on fu-ture work none but union men will be

Regard to the Banks.

In our long list of signal achievements we have never scored a greater success. Ever since the doors opened this morning a steady stream of people has been supplied-and now, at the hour this advertisement goes to press—the indications are that the entire lot of ONE THOUSAND BANKS will be completely sold out.

This remarkable record shows plainly that the shopping public knows the difference between a genuinely good article at a low price and an inferior one at a cheap price.

We have wired for another lot of one thousand Banks and those who were disappointed today in securing a bank should watch for the announcement of their arrival.

several shots at him." Capt. Ashford knew that Glass had been treated for nervousness, and he thought it possible his story was merely the result of an hallucination. Glass declared, however, that he was wanted at Boxham for the crimes, and he was turned over to Detective Weedon and Precinct Detective Fortney of the second precinct. Glass was escorted to police headquarters, where he was questioned by Inspector Boardman.

In conversation with a Star reporter the young soldier said he did not have a clear recollection of everything that happened near Roxham, Canada, four years ago. He was certain between the transfer left. was certain, however, that he tried to kill his cousin and that he caused the destruction of two barns and their contents belong-
